

01 Non-Resident License Costs by State

State producer-license application fees, verified against current NIPR data

These are the current state application fees to obtain a non-resident insurance producer license, cross-checked against NIPR's published state requirement pages. Figures do not include NIPR's own transaction/processing fee (charged separately at checkout, typically a modest add-on) or any background check, fingerprinting, or reinstatement fees. "/LOA" means the fee is charged per line of authority. Always confirm the exact current fee on npr.com before submitting an application — state fees can change without notice.

 Retaliatory-fee states — Nebraska, New York, Tennessee, and Vermont don't charge a flat non-resident fee. Instead, they charge whatever your resident state charges their residents. Check NIPR's retaliatory fee schedule for your specific state combination before applying.
